NOT FOR MR. BLACK.

Ex-Mayor Charles A. Schleren, one of the delegates to the State Convention from the XXth Assembly District of Brooklyn, yesterday took himself out of the column of delegates accredited to Governor Black by the political sharps of Kings County. It had been reported that Mr. Schleren would support Governor Black, but in an interwould support Governor Black, but in an interview yesterday he took pains to emphasize the fact that he had committed himself to no one, and that he should vote for the candidate who he believed would he the strongest man to nominate. Almost in the same sentence he said that he had found Colonel Roosevelt an unusually strong candidate before the people. Of Colonel Roosevelt he said: "I think him a spiendid specimen of American citizenship. He deserves the nomination for Governor, if any man does. He has shown himself to be a very able man, and his brilliant record in the war endears him all the more to his fellow-citizens."

Schieren says he thinks that the Citizens Mr. Schleren says he thinks that the Citizens Union will make a mistake if it interferes in State Issues. He said that he had supposed that the Union was formed to secure better municipal government, and not to enter into State politics. Speaking further of a report that he was considered an advocate of Governor Binck. Mr. Schleren suid:

"If it was understood that my delegation to the convention was elected as a Black delegation, I was unaware of it. I have noticed my name mentioned along with those of Mr. Dady, Mr. Atterbury and others as being for Governor Black. That is not so, and any use of my name in that direction is without my consent."

URGING MR. WORTH TO REMAIN AWAY. Jacob Worth is being urged by his most intimate Mr. Worth is now in good health, and his friends want to keep him well. They say that when Lieu-tenant-Governor Woodruff made Mr. Worth a deltenant-Governor Woodruff made Mr. Worth a delogate, he did not do it as a personal favor to Mr. Worth, and that the latter will fight shy of the complicated situation, in which he would be a conspleuous feature if he went to the convention. "They made Mr. Worth a delegate," said one of his best friends yesterday, "just to get him in trouble, and he is wise enough to see it. If he Goes as we say, he will not go up there at all." Mr. Worth's friends are true to Governor Black, but are as hostile as ever to Lieutenant-Governor Woodruff. They profess to take no stock in the Rossevelt boom, but say that they will support the Colonel enthusiastically if he is nominated. Governor Black, they say, would draw the entire indefined Black, they say, would draw the entire indefined Black, they say, would draw the entire indefined Black they say, would draw the entire indefined Black they say, would make the entire indefined by the professor of the true of the Mr. Indorsing Roosevelt is the popular pastime now at Brooklyn Republican meetings. On Monday hight the Third Ward Republican Union, the Union Club of the Twentieth Ward and the Kings County Republican Club of the Twenty-fifth Ward indensed Roosevelt, and before the week is over like action will be taken in other wards.

IN OTHER WARDS.

It is intimated that the Roosevelt followers in the wards led by the men who are saying that they must support Black in order not to break faith with Woodrum will force the hands of their leaders by passing resolutions in ward meetings practically pledging their delegates to Rooseveit. That this plan may be adopted is indicated by the adoption of Rooseveit resolutions by the Third Ward Republican Union. The members of this club are political adherents of Michael J. Dady, one of the few Platt leaders who are still talking Black and few Platt leaders who are still talking Black and Woodruff. Twenty-third Ward Rooseveit men, it is said, will make a Roseveit man of Walter B. Atterbury by putting Rooseveit resolutions through in a ward meeting or in the social organizations, all of whose members are from the Republican party. Even now Mr. Atterbury is speaking most sindly of Rooseveit, and predicting that the convention will nominate a ticket which will get the voice of all Republicans and independents. The expected call for a conference of the Brooklyn delegates to the convention has not been issued. It will not be made until Mr. Woodruff returns to town. ers by passing resolutions in ward meetings prac-

CROKER AND HIS FRIENDS TROUBLED OVER THE OUTLOOK-SENATOR MUR-

PHY'S EFFORTS TOWARD HARMONY. The silver issue has become acute their followers are confronted with a serious problem. Some time ago, as was told in The Tribune, they considered the advisability of ignoring the Chicago platform and making the campaign on State issues. This led to a vehement protest from a contesting delegation to the National Convention Then it was thought best to do something to vention the party that supported Palmer Buckner in 1896 would nominate a State ticket. Thus the machine is threatened with a split either

It was generally believed yesterday that in their distress the leaders would be forced to declare for wildly heralded plan has also fallen through. The efforts to bring Mr. Croker, ex-Senator Hill, Senator Murphy and Hugh McLaughlin ther have failed, so far. Mr. McLaughlin has rebelled. He is at Jamesport, and yesterday he refused when urged by several friends to cross the bridge to meet any one. The man who does business with Mr. McLaughlin, so a friend of that veteran leader declared yesterday, is the man who acting largely upon the advice of Mr. McLaughlin these days. Neither Senator Murphy nor Senator M'Carren would say a word about the conference, but it was said that it was for the purpose of arranging for a gathering of Democratic leaders this week, which will have an important influence upon the work of the State Convention. Senator Murphy is understood to have called up Hugh McLaughlin on the telephone, but if he did so he received no encouragement, as Mr. McLaughlin refused to come to town. Matters are still in a chaotic condition, and Senator Murphy is working hard for harmony. He may succeed, for Mr. McLaughlin and Mr. Hill are perfectly willing that the combination of which he is a member should have its own way, but at the same time they intend to keep so far in the background that the result will be directly chargeable to Senator Murphy and Mr. Croker. mitted to Senator M'Carren's room. PREVENTED BEFORE BY FEAR THAT SHE MIGHT BE BLAMED DECLARES THAT SHE SAW THE

New light was shed on the mysterious disappearance of Miss Louise King, sister of William F. King, president of the Merchants' Association, at Coney Island on Sunday afternoon, by the confession of Alina Lindstrom, the Finnish maid, who accompanied Miss King to the beach. Miss Lindstrom was detained by the Coney Island police until Monday, when she was allowed to return to the home of the missing woman, in this city. While detained by the police the maid made conflicting statements to Mrs. Charles A. King, the mother of Louise. She said yesterday morning that she wanted to tell her the whole truth, and that she had not done so at first because she was afraid, imagining that she for the death of Louise. When asked about the maid's confess terday afternoon Mrs. King said that she was certain, in view of the story of the maid, that her daughter had been in bathing on Sunday and had probably been drowned by being carried out beyond her depth by a big wave.

"Alina is a big, good-hearted Finnish girl." she said, "and knew how to swim. She and a week ago, and while there Alina promised to teach Louise how to swim the next time they went together to Coney Island. On returning home from Coney Island on Monday Miss Lindstrom was greatly excited, but she became calm when she saw that we bore her no ill-will. "Our actions toward her prompted her to make the confession. The maid told me that several hig waves separated her and Louise, while they were in bathing on Sunday many times. The last time she lost sight of my daughter, but was only a little anxious at first for Louise's safety, owing to the many persons in the water. Later she became so frightened that she was afraid to tell any one. As she still hoped that my daughter would appear, she went to the dressing-rooms. After waiting more than an hour, she plucked up courage to tell the police. "One of the reasons given by the police for thinking that Louisa did not drown is that the clothing she left in the bathhouse dressing-room was thick fall clothing. The police think that she would not have worn such clothing in summer, and that she probably went away from Coney Island in lighter clothing.

Police Captain Dunn said yesterday that he had not changed his opinion, and still firmly believed that Miss King was safe, despite the confession of the maid.
